

For our project we are going to use agile process model. This model not only allows us to divide the work into smaller tasks, but also enables us to deliver new functionalities rapidly. This model is suitable for our project, as the requirements are not precise, as we do not know what our users will be demanding from the app. Agile model will allow us to quickly adapt to that situation and come up with new features, as soon as the users suggest them to us.